

Journal of the Royal Army Medical Corps

ARTICLES COVER BLAST AND TRAUMATIC INJURY, LIMB PAIN, AMPUTATION PATTERNS, GUNSHOT WOUNDS, NUTRITIONAL RESEARCH & HIGH ALTITUDE STUDIES.

The Journal of the Royal Army Medical Corps is over 100 years old and has reported on many major innovations in military medical care. It has continued to report on advances made in medicine and surgery during the long deployment in Afghanistan.

Despite its title, the Journal publishes high quality research and reviews from all branches of medicine and the allied health professions from within the Armed Forces and from civilian authors. It has published reports from every conflict involving the United Kingdom since the Boer War and the imminent 100-year anniversary of World War 1 will allow us to reflect how much - and how little - has changed in military medicine in a century.
